

Babies Clinic in Red Room

Red Room has developed a keen interest in baby clinics. This term, we have changed the home corner into a baby clinic where the children can act out and pretend to be doctors, babies, parents and a receptionist. The children are enhancing their imagination and using real-life experiences in their play to express their thoughts and feelings. The children enrich their vocabulary and language through play. Some children in Red Room said they would like to become doctors when they are grown up. Red Room children enjoyed playing in the baby clinics.
